WOODSTOCK HISTORICAL SOC. HOLDS MEETING ON TOWN HISTORY

The last meeting of the Woodstock Historical Society at the Elementary School concentrated on local history. Members answered a questionnaire developed by Dorothea Hooper on town events through the years. They were surprised to discover how much they did and didn't know.

In the business portion of the meeting several important developments occurred. The membership passed an amendment to the constitution providing that the Board of Trustees could be overridden by a two-thirds vote of the members present at a meeting. President Eva Twitchell announced that the Society has had an offer by a member to make a substantial donation toward a Society building if the members can fix on a site. A committee to examine the possible options will be appointed at the next meeting.

A hunters' supper will be undertaken sometime in November to raise money. Members are also reminded that dues should be paid: $2 regular membership; life membership — $25, under 55 years of age, and $15 over 55.

Among the donations to the museum this past month special note should be made that the Willing Workers of South Woodstock have offered the minister's chairs and pulpit Bible of the old church there. These will complement the organ previously donated.

Attendance at the meeting was unusual for a fall meeting, and those present appeared to enjoy the proceedings.

Tuesday, Oct. 20, at the Bethel Inn, Bethel. Social hour is at 5:30 p. m., and dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m.

The group is made up of foremen and supervisors from businesses in the western area of Maine.

Very soon after that we left for the beach at Mullen's Head. After leaving the main highway we took a road through massed spruces, which occasionally gave way to trees of bright gold and crimson. The air was full of the cries of evergreen leaves. All were sentiments of history. The many stone walls told us of farms for a generation or two, then deserted, left to a fate that has obliterated them. The road was picturesque all the way. A few steps from the car brought us out on to a beach. The shearing effect of the winds could be seen everywhere, where trees had streamed away from the wind in flag form.

We could see a black cloud of ducks on the sea's broad table. They moved close to the surface, spread, and thinned out and settled again. We could hear their "Chuck-a-duck-a-duck" call that contented ducks make.

Gulls not as skilled settled there, too, mewing, crying, or standing by themselves with a do-nothing air.

At other beaches we found roses in bloom, as well as several other flowers.

Greenwood City

—Mrs. Collette Morgan, Corres.—
The night wore away. The stars turned out their lamps. Sunrise began to come with a trail of small clouds which went tumbling up the sky like a flock of pink sheep. The trees were dressed in glories of red and gold against a high sky.

We left home very early for Rockland to take a morning boat across Penobscot Bay to the island of North Haven.

The familiar land marks greeted us. Owl's Head, Rockland Breakwater, bell buoys, The Fiddler, and the Stone Monument. Time turned back to the many times we had visited these things over the years.

Crossing the bay the sea was quiet, the air gentle and balmy for October, and the sky clear and soft. The noise of the engine, the soft insistent whisper and sign of the water, as we went on, filled our ears. A distance away the buoys changed musically and plaintively. I recalled the time some 40 years ago when I stood on one in a calm sea to have a picture taken. Today? No!

I again took a picture when I passed the Sugar Loaf, seeing the huge face in the rock, as clearly as that of the Old Man of the Mountain.

On arrival we were in time for lunch and our friend had lobster. She is always thoughtful and they were so good.

Very soon after that we left for the beach at Mullen's Head. After leaving the main highway we took a road through massed spruces, which occasionally gave way to trees of bright gold and crimson. We sat in our car one day to watch the water. It was quiet so we could hear the breathing of the sea and the splash of the surf. At times the sea took on a grim look of the sky and rolled landward hurling itself upon the rocky shore, testing the strength of the rocks with its might. Then the curves of the beaches smiled among the boulders. In the distance the mountains reared their heads with green and colored shoulders.

On another day after a picnic at the beach a friend and I climbed Ames Nubble, the highest on the Island. The pathway led through a field with various flowers. A monarch butterfly flew by and I thought of the one on the ferry coming over, flying out to sea then always returning. On up to the top we went where a surprise view awaited me. In every direction there was water, so of course my camera got a work-out. My friend, Nina, knew this section well and pointed out to me the mountains of the mainland; Meganticook and its brother spread their mantles, wide, Mt. Battie, Ball Mtn., Ragged Mtn., Beach Hill, Dodge Mtn., Bald Rock, and Duck Trap Mtn. The distant islands seemed like tufted cushions on a glassy floor. What a view!

Nearly four days we spent with these friendly island people. It was really nice to visit here and find the secret of tranquility and more than just surface contentment.

"My heart is soothed by these untroubled things; I hold them close; I can again go down Remembering the peaceful tilt of wings. The silhouette of sails beyond the town. And how at dark the lighthouse beacon gleams When night is blue upon this shore of dreams."

Parker Daye of Englishtown, N. J., will be spending the next few months with the Ed Dayes.

Miss Sharon Daye attended Fryeburg Fair on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Yates and friends camped at Fryeburg Fair for the week.

A lot from Sunday River attended the Woodmen's events at Fryeburg Fair.

Mrs. Jeannine Fleet went with her mother on a 10-day bus tour to Nashville, Tenn. In Virginia they travelled the Skyline Drive and the Luray Caverns. On to Gatlinburg for a 2 1/2 mile ride up the mountain for supper at the Old Heidelberg Castle. Then next morning on to Nashville, where they visited the Country Music Hall of Fame, Grand Old Opry, The Hermitage House, Centennial Park, and saw a lot of the stars homes; also the Governor's mansion. They came back through Kentucky and visited My Old Kentucky Home. Saw a lot of horse farms and cattle farms. The next day traveled through West Virginia where they visited the Viking Glass factory outlet. Traveled across Pennsylvania on Monday going through four tunnels, the Allegheny, the Tuscarora, both about 1/2 mile each. This was just part of what they saw.

Mrs. Nancy Kimball, Jody and Anita, called on Mary Morin Sunday.

Some of the Verrills have been spending time at the cottage getting it ready for winter.

Sent in by Eva Yates: Thanks to Joe and the Citizen for my nice lined paper. It's a big help. Well it's Monday and a holiday—no schools—no banks etc. etc. A lot of the people are working—some are not. I think the holidays like this should keep—then when a bad storm comes along that day is already made up—but laws are law and today they all have more loopholes than a crocheted bedspread. It's a magnificent day, the first one in a long time. Joe Yates has been under the weather the past week with a cold and strep throat—now he sounds like he had the croup. It sure hangs on. If it's not too late Evelyne I want to say congratulations and wish you all the joy and happiness of married life can bring. I've made an enemy by forgetting and expect a kick in the pants next time I see a certain someone. Have pity for Old Go-Shoes.

The B. H. Yates and friends spent all last week in their trailer at Fryeburg Fair. Last I heard Mrs. B. H. was going to bet on horses. I hope she won more or less.

Well our president is still talking cuts—I've listened to T.V. and heard people talk and I have not as yet heard him mention a cut in his salary or any of our Senators or Congressmen. And I always thought the place to start cutting was at the top—that's where I start to cut a pumpkin. We have a lot of people that need to go back to school. Not the schools we send kids to—it's the school of hard knocks.

Monday, the 5th the Go-Shoes was in Norway and expected to go to Pomona Tuesday night but got left there—but Wednesday went to Norway with Joe and Peggy to the doctors. Planned on a Grange meeting at Newry Corner Saturday night, got left again so the Go-Shoes have hung on the book since Wednesday, Oct. 7 and they are still on the hook.

Laura Hutchins and grandson, Bobbie Andams, was at her mother's, Monday evening. Peggy Blake spent Sunday with her sister, Viva Whitman, at Norway.

Jack Frost snuck in and did his dirty or natural duty a couple of nights ago so the pretty flowers are a thing of the past.

Be sure to get your red flannels out and keep watch we may get snow by and by.

LAPHAM'S HISTORY OF BETHEL CONTAINS WEALTH OF INFORMATION

In 1810 the town of Bethel authorized the building of a magazine. James Mills was the first person killed in Bethel by a falling tree in 1790. Edmund Bean drove a flock of turkeys to Portland regularly. A sash and blind factory once stood on Mechanic Street. Dr. Moses Mason once had a library built next to his house which contained only the "Congressional Globe" and other public documents he collected during his years in Washington. The poor were sold to the highest bidder at the town meeting in 1818. Eleazar Twitchell placed a tub filled with rum and molasses in his corn field and easily caught the bear who had been destroying his crops and threatening his livestock.

These are among the choice details that are found in William B. Lapham's "History of Bethel" which is being reprinted this fall by the Bethel Historical Society in cooperation with New England Historical Press of Somersworth, N. H.

WALKING WITH JESUS CHRIST

Who is a Christian? The question is asked. What does that name mean and, how about the so many names for "Churches"? Why, there are more denominations than you can shake a stick at and we would question Christ's ability to spell their names and understand their doctrines—ideas about Christianity.

Some say baptism, while others say—only believe—and here we had better be careful—for as the Bible says in James 2:19 "You believe that there is one God. Good! Even the demons believe that—and shudder!" Sounds strange why they shudder and tremble—most of us don't, but should we? Why don't we? Perhaps they know something most people do not—and that's a thought, where did demons, the devil come from?—are they real as Isaiah 14:12 says? "How you have fallen from heaven—" "You have been cast down to the earth." 13, you said—"I will raise my throne above the stars of God." As Jude 6 tells it "who abandoned their own home." Hm, fallen angels—we had better be careful—think twice before we say:—Isn't he an angel!—There's two kinds—those who worship God and serve the Christian—and those fallen ones that are fussing and plaguing us

MUNDT-ALLEN UNIT REQUESTS COSTUME DONATIONS

Donations of costumes to help dress up the children for the Ethel Bisbee School Halloween Parade, are being requested by the Auxiliary of Mundt-Allen American Legion #81.

Anyone having a costume they would like to donate may leave it at the home of Mrs. R. S. McMillin, High Street, Bethel. Costumes will be kept for use another year or will be returned to the owner upon request.

MUNDT-ALLEN AUXILIARY IS COLLECTING GIFTS FOR PINELAND

Mrs. Ramona Lowe, President of Mundt-Allen Unit #81, has announced that one of the Unit's fall projects will be to collect items for the residents of Pineland. There are 350 residents there of all ages and it would be wonderful for everyone to have gifts at Christmas. There are 22 youngsters under the age of 14, and 49 youth under 21. The remainder of the patients are adults.

The Unit is requesting donations of gifts and will see that they are taken to the home prior to the holiday. Suggestions include toilet articles, clothing, belts, wallets, playing cards, tobacco products and soft candies for the men and women. The children could use toilet articles, such as bubble bath and powder, toys, especially educational ones, color books and crayons, stuffed animals, and unbreakable cars and trucks. Other items would be pictures, throw pillows, plants and hangers to brighten their surroundings or perhaps simple puzzles and games.

Please, if you have any of these items or would like to buy a little something to brighten the holiday for others, leave them at the home of Mrs. R. S. McMillin, High Street, Bethel (on the porch will be fine, if you do not find Mrs. McMillin at home).

UMO PLANETARIUM RECEIVES "BEHIND SCENES" FACELIFT

You won't notice the changes when you walk through the door, but the University of Maine at Orono's Planetarium has received extensive "behind the scenes" facelift as the first phase of its renovation nears completion.

Five months after the Wingate Hall facility closed its doors for major repairs, the Planetarium has been completely rewired and has acquired new slide projectors and a new control console. More than $12,000 worth of electrical work was donated over the summer by local electricians, Jeff Jacobs of Orrington, and Ben Pickering of Orono.

Enough repair work has been completed to enable the Planetarium to hold its annual Christmas Shows this December, according to Neil Comins, assistant professor of astronomy and director of the Planetarium.

In addition, Comins announced the appointment of Alan Davenport of Hampden as business manager for the Planetarium. His duties will include advertising, publicity, and taking reservations for school and public shows.

"We're very pleased at what's been accomplished so far," says Comins, who helped form Friends of the Planetarium, the group responsible for launching the fund raising drive last spring. "But we still need $25,000 to replace the star projector and the seats, and that's where we're turning our efforts now," he says.

The Friends of the Planetarium hope to obtain several major gifts in order to complete the fund raising project as soon as possible.

Meanwhile, plans for December shows of "The Christmas Star" and "The Twelve Days of Christ-

AUTUMN HAZE/FOG CALLS FOR EXTRA CAUTION BY MOTOR VEHICLE OPERATORS

Reduced visibility and wet, leafy roads play a leading role in many motor vehicle accidents at this time of year, caution the Maine State Police.

"The autumn haze develops into fog—always a road hazard—calling for low beam headlights, reduced speed and extra caution," said Colonel Allan H. Weeks, chief of the Maine State Police.

Fog or autumn haze is not the only barrier to vision on the road. Piles of leaves beside the road can also result in an accident or death.

The state police chief advises motorists to be extra alert for youngsters who may be jumping into or crawling about piled leaves near roadways.

"Children get a kick out of crawling into a pile of leaves; however, sometimes they forget that for their own safety they should stay away from leaves piled alongside of a road," said Col. Weeks.

In addition to piles of leaves along the roadway, motorists are reminded that rain-slick roads can be dangerous, especially during autumn.

"We ask each motorist to drive at reasonable speed at all times, and to reduce speed to fit conditions, especially on wet, leafy roads," Weeks said.

mas" are well underway. While dates have not yet been set, reservations from school classes will be taken starting in mid-November, and the general public can make reservations as of Dec. 1.

The Planetarium's new phone number will be 581-7739. Information about the Friends of the Planetarium can be obtained from Rita Schreiber at the Bangor Public Library.

The Week in Washington

by Sen. George J. Mitchell

Over the past year, a temporary world glut of oil has helped moderate the price of oil. This has been a welcome measure of relief to Maine consumers. Maine depends on imported oil for 57% of its energy needs, at a cost of $1 billion per year. Maine's average home heating cost is $1,400, the second highest in the nation.

Obviously, the combination of our long winters and escalating prices has made Maine a leader in energy conservation. Reducing the amount of oil used is the single most effective immediate step that any homeowner can take to cut costs. And many Maine people have taken such steps.

Mainers have turned to wood stoves at an unprecedented rate. A state study last year showed that 50% of homeowners had either installed wood heat or planned to do so this winter.

The state of Maine helped develop the low-income weatherization program, which now operates in all states. Nearly 20,000 Maine homes have been insulated through this program. Fifty thousand (50,000) more need insulation.

And Mainers have used the residential energy tax credit to offset the expense of insulating their homes. When the tax credit was enacted in 1978, 32,000 Maine homeowners took advantage of it, spending $26 million that year to reduce their heating costs. Maine homeowners have continued to use that credit. The early data for 1979 indicate that 36,000 households invested in insulation. I am certain Maine people spent as much, if not more, during 1980 and 1981.

The residential energy tax credit has been a success. When higher prices create an incentive to insulate, the energy tax credit is a way of making additional funds available by lowering taxes that otherwise would be owed. The Administration recognized the value of this incentive earlier this year, when it cited the availability of tax credits as a factor that justified cutting back direct spending for conservation.

So it is particularly disturbing that the Treasury Department now proposes to eliminate the residential tax credit. The proposal is short-sighted and unfair.

Direct spending for conservation was cut by 44% in the first round of budget reductions. The President now wants to make an 84% cut in the remaining conservation programs. This would, of course, virtually eliminate any federal support for conservation.

To eliminate the energy tax credit at the same time would have the effect of totally wiping out any federal policy of encouraging conservation.

The relative calm of world oil markets is a temporary phenomenon. We have no guarantee that it will continue. Despite all the incentives given to oil companies for exploration, domestic oil production in fact declined 1% this year. No substantial increase in domestic production is likely.

Spending cuts in alternative energy programs, such as solar, will slow their commercialization, so they are less likely to be available in the near future.

Clearly, continued conservation is essential and should be part of our national policy.

Savings in federal energy costs can come from other sources. They could be accomplished by reversing the $12 billion tax reduction to the oil industry that was recently enacted. They could be accomplished by eliminating federal funding of the Clinch River Nuclear Breeder Reactor, a project with no realistic hope of producing commercially priced fuel.

They could be accomplished by paring the 84% of our energy budget that subsidizes conventional

CANCER INFORMATION NOW REACHING THOUSANDS

Does a blow to the breast cause cancer? If cancer is exposed to air during surgery, will it spread? If several family members get cancer, does that mean everyone in the family will get it?

These myths about cancer are just a few of the thousands of questions that the Maine Cancer Information Service (CIS), a state wide toll-free telephone line, has answered since its inception four years ago.

Myths and misconceptions about cancer produce fear; fear leads to ignored symptoms and delayed doctor visits; and delayed visits result in fewer chances for early diagnosis—a key to successful cancer treatment.

Trained CIS counselors try to reduce callers' fears about cancer by dispelling myths and misconceptions surrounding the disease and by emphasizing prevention and early detection. They answer questions on all aspects of cancer from the most current statistics and treatment methods, to the psychological and social impact of the disease. All calls are confidential and receive individualized attention.

The CIS also works cooperatively with other organizations in the state, to provide Maine residents from Presque Isle to Portland with cancer information. In 1980, the CIS was selected by the Maine Department of Human Services to be the state's DES information line, providing free information on DES and placing callers on confidential mailing lists for updated DES information.

"People of all ages call us" said a CIS counselor, "cancer patients, their families and friends, people with possible symptoms, students and health professionals."

"We translate medical and scientific information into plain, comprehensible language. We answer specific questions concerning cancer prevention and detection, treatment and rehabilitation and can refer callers to cancer-related services in their local areas, such as medical facilities, home health agencies, transportation services and support groups. But listening and offering emotional support also are a big part of our job."

A library of regularly updated resources, expert consultants and a direct line to the national CIS in Bethesda, Md., enable counselors to provide the most accurate, current information on cancer. In addition, materials on a variety of cancer-related topics can be mailed to callers, free, upon request. The CIS does not diagnose or recommend treatment, however, because that is the physician's responsibility.

The Maine Cancer Information Service is sponsored by the American Cancer Society, Maine Division, the Maine Medical Association, and the Maine Osteopathic Association. Part of a national cancer communications network, the CIS is funded by the National Cancer Institute through a contract with the Sidney Farber Cancer Institute in Boston.

Anyone in Maine can reach the CIS, toll-free by calling 1-800-225-7034. Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. al fuels. Instead, all spending cuts have come from the 16% that funds conservation.

This is unbalanced and unfair. It is short-sighted to assume that conservation has no legitimate role in a national energy policy.

And it is unfair to make working people subject to the discipline of the free market when oil companies, synthetic fuels producers and nuclear power corporations get government aid that protects them from the free market.

I will oppose the effort to eliminate the residential energy tax credit.

In 1933, the Colored National Labor Union became the first national black labor organization, according to a publication of the U. S. Department of Labor, "Labor Firsts in America."

FAMILY LIFE MINISTRIES AT BETHEL GOSPEL CENTER OCTOBER 18-21

The Rev. George W. Welbourn, President of Family Life Ministries, Inc., with headquarters in South Easton, Mass., will speak at the Bethel Gospel Center of C. & M. A. Route #26, Bethel, Oct. 18-21: Sunday, 10 a. m. and 6 p. m.; Monday to Wednesday, 7 p. m.

Mr. Welbourn has been a pastor in the Christian and Missionary Alliance for 29 years. His pastoral ministry took him to Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Minnesota and Delaware. He served on official committees on District and National levels.

Pastor Welbourn will be holding a Deeper Life Conference here in Bethel.

After his marriage in 1979 to Miss Edna Sawyer, Director of Child Evangelism, Inc. of Maine, the Welbourns began to travel as a team. Mrs. Welbourn conducts children's meetings teaching Biblical truths by means of visual aids. She will be speaking to children ages 5-11.

Conferences have been conducted from Maine to Florida, from Massachusetts to Iowa and in Ontario, Canada.

The public is cordially invited. For additional information call 824-2289.

SPS CONSULTANTS FORMED BY THREE LOCAL WOMEN

Susan Farrar and Phyllis Dock of Bethel, and Suzanne Taylor of Newry have started SPS Consultants. The group, human relations consultants, conduct workshops in stress management, conflict management, communications, problem solving, goal training, community organization, coping with retirement, assertiveness training and other human relations related programs.

Courses can be conducted as one day workshops or they can be divided into several sessions.

Mrs. Taylor thought of the idea after participating in a training program she attended through the National Training Laboratories, an organization concerned with the development of individual potential through personal growth programs and innovations in working with large groups. She graduated from Bates College and is now enrolled in a masters program at Dartmouth College. She has several years of experience in the field of human relations and is currently a teacher in S.A.D. 44.

Mrs. Dock is a registered nurse and has a degree in human relations from the University of New Hampshire. She has held several positions with human service organizations and has led workshops throughout Maine and New Hampshire.

Mrs. Farrar is an author and has been a dance instructor since the 1940's. She trains in the field of movement, relaxation and meditation.

The three women have had several years experience with training through the national training lab program offered in Bethel.

SPS is particularly proud of their stress management workshop. The day-long workshop assists participants in dealing effectively with stress. Techniques such as personal profiles, time line studies and "awareness through movement and relaxation" are used.

SPS offers explanations as to what stress is, defines the positive and negative aspects of stress and encourages the development of a personal action plan for stress management. The stress management workshop has been given throughout Maine by SPS to members of the Maine Town and City Clerks Association and the Maine Tax Collectors and Treasurers Association as well as community groups.

Evaluations completed by course participants clearly indicate that the combined personalities and abilities of these three women leave a lasting impression. Inquiries should be made of Susan Farrar.

ROWDIES WIN AGAIN IN YOUTH LEAGUE SOCCER

In Bethel Area Youth Soccer action Sunday, Oct. 11, the Rowdies got by the Sockers by a close 2-1 score. The Sockers dominated play throughout much of the game but were only able to break the Rowdies' tough defense once.

The Rowdies forward, Brent Angevine. Neither team was able to score the rest of the first half and the score remained 1-0 at half time. Then at 5:00 of the third quarter, Brent Remington, converted a penalty kick and the score jumped to 2-0. At 1:20 of the fourth quarter Jeff Lyon of the Sockers drilled a shot into the Rowdies' net to end the scoring.

In the preliminary game, Monika Burk broke through the Strikers defense and pushed a shot into the net at 10:30 of the final period to give the Bombers a hard-fought 1-0 victory over the Strikers.

Youth Soccer action will conclude next Sunday, Oct. 18, with a full schedule of games at the usual time.

(Tri-Town Ambulance & Emergency Rescue Service)

Tri Town is pleased to be able to put an ambulance in the Woodstock Town Garage. It needs some renovations to get it suitable. The section needs a cement floor, an overhead door, a partition between this section and the rest of the town garage and insulation. Shirley Koskela, South Woodstock, and Warren Emery, West Paris, are in charge of the building repairs. The Ambulance Service is soliciting funds, supplies, and labor to help with this project. Contact either of the above men if you can help in any way.

The benefit dance by the "Old Parisians" brought in over $400. Thanks to all of the band members and especially Pete Andrews for their work with the dance. Over 180 people came and danced to tunes of the older times.

The next training meeting is Wednesday, Oct. 28, at Ledgewood Memorial Home at 7 p. m. Any new members are encouraged to come.

Remember to call the ambulance, the number is 1-800-482-7433.

(Note: Some telephone exchanges require the use of an I.D. number. If in doubt, please consult the telephone directory for instructions for your area.)

NEWS FROM MRS. BOUCHARD'S NURSERY SCHOOL

The children began work on Halloween projects this week by making egg carton witches, black cats, pumpkin men and witch puppets. For readiness activities they printed number one and traced one fall leaf. They also learned about shapes and traced large circles and made them into pumpkins.

Games learned are the Hokey Pokey, Duck, duck, goose, and Looby Loo. Also they are practicing special songs for the Halloween program.

During free time students are completing papers for the readiness check list of skills, have calendar time and find out what is in the feeble box. Snack making is still the best activity and everyone gets a chance to help. This week's goodies were baked apples, chocolate oatmeal cookies, egg custard and pumpkin muffins.

There are some nice pictures of the clown days posted on the bulletin board. It was decided that 14 clowns would make a fun circus!

North Paris

— Eveline B. Vatcher, Corres. —

This Columbus Day holiday is nice and sunny, after a dismal cold, windy, and rainy week for Fryeburg Fair. People thronged to the fair despite the weather. The exhibits and the buildings were well set up and showed lots of hard work by the exhibitors. One cake made by Bethany Andrews Bean, our own special cake maker, was an old time dress of blue and white on a plastic doll. I wouldn't be tempted to eat it by nibbles, but would keep it for a parlor ornament. It won a blue ribbon.

A Community Club meeting was at the hall Oct. 7, and it was very chilly, so the business was conducted quickly. Decided not to have Halloween party for the neighborhood children. No heat in hall yet.

Joe Vatcher had his 255 lb. pig dressed off and to celebrate her last day on "the farm". Porky took a walk. A bit of grain enticed her to return to captivity.

North Paris was alive with sheriff's cars and the T.T.A.E.R.S. transported a girl to Norway hospital for an overdose of drugs. They were looking for a man with a gun and found him at Buckfield.

The crowd was gathered at the bridge below Eveline Vatcher's house.

Thank you, Fred Judkins, for your congratulations. I hope you and Marion enjoy your trip south.

A big birthday celebration at "Big Rock" farm Oct. 11 to note the birthdays of "Root" Lawrence, Herman Card and Joe Kalinowski. An old fashioned boiled dinner was enjoyed by all. I bet they all gained a pound. Guests: Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Emery, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Penley Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Herman Card, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Record, Mr. and Mrs. "Root" Lawrence; Stanley Ukelele, Connecticut; Mrs. Rachel Boston, Florida; and the hostess, Laura K. Gifts and cakes were on the menu.

Children's Center

Another busy week has passed! The theme at the Center this week has been geared around "Fall". The children have taken nature walks and gathered leaves for various art activities. All have learned new songs, listened to stories and learned new words associated with fall. (Autumn, crisp, brisk, frosty, etc.) Tyrene opened the kitchen to some of the children for a cooking activity and they made whole wheat pecan pies for pumpkin pies. Tyrene has carried the Fall theme through the kitchen and onto the lunch table, using apples, pumpkin, corn, squash and cabbage. All of these activities have been for the children's language, motor, social, and cognitive development. Learning and growing are fun!

There is a new fence surrounding the outside play area. The Center would like to thank Timmerland for their donation of the cedar posts, Leroy Patton for cutting and transporting them, Ernest Angeline for the use of the post hole digger, and last but not least George Haines and Scott Amis for "putting it all together".

A big thank you to the volunteers this week: Tracy Poland, Medona Baker, Jennie Edwards, and Edwina Patten. Volunteers contribute a great deal to the Center's program.

Officers were elected at the Oct. 6 parent meeting and are as follows: Parent Group—Chairperson, Medona Baker; Vice Chairpersons, Karen and Eric Paul; Secretary, Tracy Poland; Treasurer, Susanne Burris. Policy Council—Present Parents, Audrey Brooke, Eric and Karen Paul; Past Parent, Larry Bonney; Alternate, Elsie Bonney; Community Representative, Louise Amis.

This week is "Apple Week" at the Center. It's another busy week with a field trip, and various activities in the kitchen and classroom.

P. Mooney has been introduced to the children this week. He is a puppet that plays an important role in the children's language development throughout the school year.

Chimneys should be cleaned or at least checked; make sure no flammable materials are near the heating system.

If you are not sure your home heating system is safe, call your Fire Department to inspect it. Have a safe and warm home this winter.

The Friendly Senior Citizens met Wednesday, Oct. 7, at the church vestry for a pot luck dinner and the regular meeting followed. All officers were present and the records were read and approved. It was reported that two members were in the hospital, Polly Chesnel and Bertram Rugg. Jo Sanderson was on the dinner committee for Thanksgiving and she reported four places and their prices and it was a majority vote to go to a South Paris Restaurant on Main Street. It was reported on the energy bill on the ballot for Nov. 3 and all asked to vote yes on that question as it will help all senior citizens. The meeting closed with over 50 members present. An auction followed with Pam DeFour as auctioneer. There was a good variety and most all was sold.

Many from here attended the Fryeburg Fair, but it was so cold and damp over there, we didn't stay long. I think Saturday's parade was one of the longest I have ever seen and the Telstar marching band was a credit to the Bethel area.

Lee and Christie Lord went to the fair Tuesday and reported a large crowd.

Rev. Jeffery Hooker has moved into the Mahlon Grover house at the foot of the hill.

We were invited guests Saturday night to the oyster stew supper and dance on Vernon St. American Legion, Bethel. It was a very enjoyable evening and a large crowd.

The Stoneham Knight Riders had work detail at the club site Sunday morning with seven teens.

Herbert Andrews is coming along fine on his new home, here on the hill.

Fred Stover resigned as treasurer and Josephine Tripp was elected to fill the position.

The program was short because of the degree work. Josephine Tripp, Master of Bear River, welcomed the group and Earl Purington, Oxford Grange, responded. Educational Aid auction was held. Winfield Bennett was the auctioneer.

October's bright blue weather is fading fast. The leaves have reached their height in the sap orchards now and are very pretty.

Esther Davis went with Ethel Davis and Erland Twitchell around the mountains Sunday. They went through Jackson to Cog railway. They reported that it started to snow as they were leaving. The train was taking passengers half way up the mountain but because of the inclement weather they didn't go to the top. They drove home through Crawford Notch and took in Fryeburg Fair as they were coming home through town.

Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Fleming, Sheryl Wilbur and many others attended the Fryeburg Fair this week.

Donahue reported 100% membership as of now.

The Fall Council was held at the Martin Manor Hotel Oct. 8, Waterville. Those attending from #2943 were Frances Bennett, Hilda Donahue, Maude Danforth, Leona Lurvey, Mary Bishop and Adeline Dexter. Roy Cummings represented the Barracks.

The next meeting will be Nov. 4. Committee will be Olive Head, Rose Taylor, Jane Van and Maude Danforth. It will be the usual pot luck dinner.

Cards were signed by all for Henry Law, Brewer; Elmyra Chase, Winthrop; Lottie Parker, Brewer; and Roland Haggitt, Norway.

NOW IS TIME TO PROTECT

VEHICLES FOR WINTER
With falling temperatures, frost on the ground, and earlier darkness, the state police advise motorists now is the time to begin protecting their vehicles against possible misfortune during the colder months.

In addition, the defroster, heater and tire chains suddenly become important as the intelligent driver anticipates winter's challenges.

According to Col. Weeks, "Knowing that blustery days are coming, and that last minute rush for winterizing always jams garages and service stations, the thinking person acts in advance and gets his/her vehicle attended to during the lull before the storms."

The state police chief said that a change in driving habits is in order too, as motorists face many weeks of cold rain, moisture-laden snow, sleet and ice.

Gradual starts and stops, longer intervals between vehicles, signals well in advance of turning, cautious passing, and alertness for pedestrians who may slip or falter are the marks that distinguish the "truly good driver" from one who became an accident victim as a result of not making these adjustments before the first snow falls, he said.

"A vehicle in good shape, driven by a safety-minded driver, will collect dividends in peace of mind for oneself, comfort for passengers, and be the finest possible."

SUNDAY RIVER SKI AREA

READY TO GO WHEN TEMPERATURE DROPS
The Sunday River Ski Area crew is patiently waiting for the thermometer to register consistently below the 28° mark so they can begin to make snow. Sunday River plans to begin operation of the snow guns around Oct. 21 and is gearing for a Nov. 13 opening date. If the weather co-operates with consistently cold weather or early snowstorms fall, as are predicted, Sunday River is prepared to open immediately.

Off season trail maintenance including moving and brushcutting is complete as is the cutting and mulching of the new Monday Mourning and Roundabout Trails. The lifts have had their annual maintenance and alignment checks. The T-bars are on line and even the lift line corrals are in place. Erection of the new South Ridge Double Chairlift is on schedule and the first load test and Tramway inspection is set for the last week of October.

The ski area's snowmaking system has been serviced and new lines added to increase the coverage by 20 acres as well as increasing the efficiency of the system. Sunday River now covers 70 of its total 150 acres of ski terrain with man-made snow.

After the past two snowless seasons, skiers are anxious to get back on the slopes. For Sunday River it's only a matter of a few degrees or an unexpected Fall blizzard.
